CELEBRATING 70 YEARS!

Jeff Downes, Vestavia Hills City Manager

It is fairly common for November newsletter articles to shower adulation to people and circumstances that we are thankful for during the previous year. This month, I am going to keep this tradition with a slight difference. I want to call out a series of “thanks” in honor of the City of Vestavia Hills’ 70th birthday. Many individuals and leaders have engaged in our community to make this wonderful city a place that is in high demand to raise a family and live a serene life. There are so many people to be thankful for – many more than can be named in this brief space – who have created the “Life Above” which we enjoy.

Thanks to Charles Byrd and his family who first envisioned a city of “at least a thousand residents” and invested in a residential development that would “tame the wilds” of Shades Mountain and, later, invested in the first shopping center in Vestavia Hills. Thanks to the incorporators of Vestavia Hills in 1950, who voted, 88-8, to incorporate our city and later elected, 54-31, Mayor Verner L. Adams as its first mayor. Thanks to Mayor Robert Guillot who focused on bringing a certain quality of life to our city in the form of parks, a library, public safety services and its own educational system. Furthermore, these two pioneers ushered in a growth period that would establish Vestavia Hills as a welcoming home to many residents. Thanks to the many volunteers from civic clubs, recreational organizations and churches who laid a foundation of volunteerism that continues to this day.

Thanks to Bill Harbert and his family for their service to the community in so many forms, not the least of which is the heavy lifting associated with the placement of our iconic Sibyl Temple at the City’s gateway.

The growth of our city and its maturity continued under Mayors Sara Wuska and C. Pat Reynolds. Many thanks to these elected leaders and their councils who facilitated an emphasis on senior services and ultimately prepared the City for an economically sustainable future with the annexation of Liberty Park. All during this past and continuing to this day, community stalwarts like State Senator Jabo Waggoner and City Attorney Patrick Boone guided the decision making so that our community could serve as a beacon of cutting edge municipal best practices.

The most recent periods have seen efforts of mayors and councils move government and City activities to a professional and comprehensive set of activities that deserve many accolades. Mayor Scotty McCallum generously retired from his lead position at UAB to take the helm of a city searching for

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

Todd Freeman, Ed.D., Vestavia Hills City Schools Superintendent

“The wise man built his house upon the rock ...
the foolish man built his house upon the sand
... the rains came down and the floods came up ... and the house on the rock stood firm ... and the house on the sand went splat!” These paraphrased lyrics from a children’s song are still locked in my memory after all these years. The lesson of the importance of a solid foundation is etched in my mind forever.

Like all organizations, communities and families, Vestavia Hills City Schools has adapted to functioning in a time of great disruption, confusion and uncertainty. Our mission to provide every student the opportunity to learn without limits continues to be the pinnacle toward which we climb. The limits to learning look much different than they did only seven months ago. What we believe, however, has not changed and continues to be the foundation undergirding the work in our schools.

The VHCS team believes all people deserve respect, each person deserves to be safe, and every person has value. These beliefs are our structure for supporting students; the pillars of character, or our core values, form the foundation.

For the past several years, VHCS has been partnering with The Hope Institute at Samford University whose mission is “equipping educators to cultivate character.” This partnership has guided our approach to emphasizing core values such as honesty, integrity, love and perseverance. Our schools frame the importance of those values as the impetus for how we treat others, no matter the circumstances.

For its efforts, Vestavia Hills Elementary Cahaba Heights was named a National School of Character earlier this year by Character.org. Dr. Alicia Hunsberger commented, “As a school, we have committed to teaching character through daily class meetings called Heights Huddle ... Our teachers are utilizing children’s literature to teach diverse perspectives, reflecting on how to respond and value our differences.

Through Heights

Huddles, students have the opportunity to lead, share and celebrate learning, leadership and service.”

Vestavia Hills Elementary West principal Kim Hauser said, “Our involvement the past three years with The Hope Institute has increased our desire to be intentional with character education and modeling and instilling essential core values in our students.” The West Way was also recently recognized by Character.org as a Promising Practice in character education.

Values are the bulwark in a storm, a bastion of safety in a crisis and the bridge that connects us over rough terrain. Reaching our goal of confronting the challenges faced by students, families and the community is more achievable when our foundation is built on these stable rocks.

an inclusive decision making process and a business approach to its operations. Mayor McCallum recognized the need to connect Vestavia Hills into its present form by incorporating Cahaba Heights. His top assistant, Butch Zaragoza, would carry his mantle of professionalism. In his terms as mayor, Zaragoza streamlined governmental services while enhancing certain opportunities for the convenience of its residents. I would be remiss not to mention his selfless act of promoting a new form of government, as well, that led to the creation of the position I currently hold.

These pioneers and hard workers have made Vestavia Hills what it is today. Mayor Ashley Curry and the current council continue to carry on the work of these fine individuals and should also be thanked for their tireless efforts. The giving people of our community and its leaders should be proud. On our city’s 70th birthday, we can celebrate the fact that Mr. Byrd’s vision of “at least one thousand people” is now shared by nearly 35,000 people who enjoy the fruits of the labor of so many people. Thanks to everyone as we near the end of a challenging 2020. The future is bright, and I send a note of optimism and thanks as we reflect during this birthday celebration.

MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Ashley Curry, Vestavia Hills Mayor

We will remember this year for several reasons.

First and foremost, the COVID-19 pandemic.

I recently heard that health officials are projecting an increase in the number of cases as flu season approaches. While we have all experienced inconveniences caused by the pandemic, including the inability to gather with friends at church, sporting events, restaurants, etc., I ask that you remain vigilant in practicing the recommended public health directives. Together, we can hopefully put COVID-19 behind us.

In spite of the pandemic, there are several positive things to celebrate and remember this year. Our school system is celebrating its 50th anniversary and 2020 marks the 70th anniversary of our city's founding. Can you believe our city is 70 years old this month? From the early 1900's settlers attempted to settle on and around Shades Mountain, so named because of the dense, shaded woods in the valley between Red Mountain and Shades Mountain. The south side of Shades Mountain (what is now Vestavia Hills) was problematic because it was difficult to cross over the mountain. There were no roads from the southern side of Shades Mountain into Birmingham. According to Marvin Whiting's book, Vestavia Hills, A Place Apart, it was well into the 1920's before homes were built and occupied, and there were only around 600 residents in 1950. The incorporation of the City was finalized on October 24, 1950 when 88 of 96 voters approved the incorporation.

The City grew and prospered with some major events such as the formation of the Vestavia Hills School System in 1970, the acquisition of the Liberty Park area in 1992, and the annexation of the Cahaba Heights area in 2002. From that humble beginning Vestavia Hills has grown to over 35,000 in population and is the 15th largest city in Alabama per the U.S. Census estimates of 2010. This growth is not surprising in light of the quality of life that we enjoy.

We can also celebrate the success of our City school system. I recently attended their 50th anniversary celebration event. It is obvious that the quest for excellence in education, envisioned by City officials, has come to fruition. The "culture of excellence" was well represented by the five inductees into the inaugural class of the Vestavia Hills City Schools Hall of Fame. The inductees are Coach Buddy Anderson, Helen Holley, David Miles, Carlton Smith and Kay Tipton. Each of these inductees represent the excellence that makes our school system one of the best in the country.

As always, November is the month in we which are thankful for the blessings that have been bestowed upon us. This Thanksgiving we should celebrate our storied history, the quality of life that our city offers and the continued excellence of our school system. I wish everyone a happy Thanksgiving. We have much for which to be thankful.

RECYCLING PROGRAM

The new sanitation contract with Amwaste is underway. There have been a number of questions as throughout the transition, but the most frequently asked questions are about recycling – what is accepted and how does the program “work”?

Nearly everything is accepted and recycled, other than: food, organic waste (dirt, rocks, grass, etc.) and glass. Of the remaining materials, RePower South (RPS) converts approximately 70% of this waste into two products:

1. Sold commodities. Recyclable commodities, such as cardboard, paper, plastic bottles, metals/cans, etc. are baled and sold into established commodity markets.
2. ReEF fuel. For some materials, such as non-recyclable papers and plastics, there isn't a market for that product. Therefore, it is not able to be sold as a commodity in its current state. RPS processes these materials to “recycle” them into ReEF fuel, which is used as a replacement for coal in industrial and energy utility boilers. ReEF fuel burns cleaner than coal and is desired by industrial and energy utilities for energy generation.

There is no need to sort or clean recyclables – RPS accepts bagged recycling and household waste co-mingled. All materials collected on the second service day each week are transported to RePower South, where they enter a system of sorters that separate waste materials from recyclables.

For more information about City of Vestavia Hills waste collection, visit bit.ly/VH-waste-collection or watch a short video outlining the RPS recycling process at <https://youtu.be/qOxJaOQOkPM>.

Happy fall! Even with the craziness of the coronavirus, the weather is gorgeous and fall is in the air. It is also inspiring me to embrace the holidays that are just around the corner. As I reflect on Thanksgiving coming up, I want to say how thankful I am for our incredible community. When I am asked why Vestavia Hills is so special, I immediately respond that it's the people. While we have a beautiful community and are blessed beyond what any of us deserve, it would not be what it is without the countless residents that give so selflessly to make a difference in Vestavia Hills, and for that, I am thankful!

I am also thankful for the wonderful businesses that strive every day to serve our community. Their contributions to our community assist in providing so many things that we value, including outstanding police and fire departments, updated parks and recreation facilities, public services, an amazing library and an incredible City staff and elected officials. We have much to be thankful for.

City revenue is generated primarily by sales tax dollars and ad valorem taxes. As such, please remember to support our brick and mortar businesses – they are the mainstay of our city. The pandemic shutdown this spring and summer has resulted in so many of our businesses taking a huge financial hit. Some are struggling to stay afloat. So, when you are thinking about your holiday shopping, please patronize our local businesses. It is harder to replace a business than it is to keep one. Let's do our part and NOT take the easy way out by shopping online! Support our brick and mortar businesses ... it DOES make a difference to our community.

Holiday in the Hills kicks off this year with SHOP. DINE. PLAY. in Vestavia Hills the week of November 16. We are planning some fun events with the different business districts throughout the city so be sure and participate in all of them for a fun start to the holiday season.

On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, we wish you and your family a wonderful Thanksgiving holiday.

DON'T INVITE VHFD TO DINNER

As Thanksgiving approaches, we look forward to visiting with our families, friends and enjoying the delicious food associated with the holiday. However, did you know that 47% of house fires begin in the kitchen and account for 45% of injuries nationwide? With all the fun that comes along with Thanksgiving, it is important to note that the holiday brings the highest number of cooking fires. The Vestavia Hills Fire Department and the National Fire Protection Association suggest you follow these simple steps to avoid inviting VHFD to your gathering:

- If frying a turkey, follow the manufacturer's guidelines for safe operation of your fryer.
  - Make sure the fryer is level and in an open area away from all structures, trees and shrubbery.
  - Keep the fryer off of wooden decks and out of garages.
  - Be sure the turkey is fully thawed and completely dry. Water and hot oil will make for a bad day and possibly a trip to the hospital.
  - Wear protective gear (goggles, gloves and apron) in case the oil splatters.
  - Do not put too much oil in the pot.
  - Do not leave the turkey cooking unattended.
  - Keep an ABC extinguisher close by in case of a fire. NEVER try to extinguish an oil fire with water.
  - Consider using an oil-free fryer.
- Stay in the kitchen while frying, boiling, grilling or broiling. If you leave the kitchen for any amount of time, turn off the oven.
- If you are simmering, baking or roasting food, check on it periodically and set a timer to remind you.
- Keep anything flammable away from the stove top including pot holders, towels and wooden utensils.

Stay safe and call 911 if you have an emergency. We would rather you call us and not need us, than not call and do need us. Have a Happy Thanksgiving!
